This action is responsive to the communication filed September 23, 2004.

Claims 48-54 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 9/23/2004.

Claims 55-57 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 9/23/2004.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 32-33, and 35-36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Porter.

Porter shows a stacked disc valve where each disc includes a flow path from the center to the outside. Referring to Figure 1, 42 can be read as a common inlet section, 40, 40a as the first and second outlet sections, and everything in between as the intermediate sections. The area marked 48 can be the intersection.

Claim 34 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Art Unit: 3753

The claim recitations of ramps suggests an inclined plane structure which distinguishes over the art of record even if the recited first and second planes are the same.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The references cited show disc type valves with a flow path in one disc only.
